

Biography

The studio is run and owned by Andy, a tattoo enthusiast, with a passion for tattooing that shines through in all aspects of his work, and in both the studio layout; and ethos.

Combining a fundamental grounding in art; from air brushing, water colours, oil paint as well as graphic design, the basis of any work is essentially perfection driven.

The decision to become a tattoo artist was not contrived, and therefore the main stimulation is not a financial one, the primary motivation for tattooing is driven by a desire to achieve recognition in the field of contemporary tattooing both from peers and clients.

After working at a recent convention and the positive feedback afterwards Voodoo will be working at as many conventions as is possible. Watch this website for details.

The studio has had work featured in a national magazine and been asked to discuss tattooing on BBC radio. The studio continues to grow and the waiting list for custom work grows.